A SMALL ARMY.
DENVER, May 24.—About one hundred and twenty-five deputies left this city early tonight for Cripple Creek, and about a hundred more will leave before morning to assist the miners in that locality in resuming operations. The strikers expect to give them battle at the Victor mine, about six miles from Cripple Creek, where the turbulent element has thrown up breast-works.

About six deputy sheriffs, mounted and each armed with a Winchester rifle and a brace of revolvers, have left Cripple Creek for the Victor mine, ostensibly to protect railroad property, but undoubtedly to participate in the fight. The strikers will be confronted by about eight hundred deputy sheriffs, all heavily armed.

SEAL-TAKING.
The Right of Indians to Use Schooners is in Question.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The discussion whether the Makhas Indians of Washington State can legally use schooners in the Bering sea while sealing has been brought to the attention of the Treasury Department.

In a communication to the Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary Hoke Smith, acting on the recommendation of Acting Commissioner Armstrong, asks to be advised whether the Indians, under a treaty between this government and Great Britain, are permitted to use their schooners as a place of refuge in storms, and security and protection at night, while engaged in fishing for fur-seal in the canoes, as heretofore has been the custom.

The correspondence accompanying the letter includes the following opinion of the Indian Commissioner telegraphed to Indian Agent Powell, at the Neah agency:

"WASHINGTON, May 23.—Indians may take fur seals in canoes or undocked boats served by paddlers, oars or sails, and not used in connection with other vessels or manned by more than five persons. This permission is given to the Indians in the employment of other persons or who shall kill or pursue fur seals outside of territorial waters under contract to deliver skins to certain persons, not to waters of the Bering Sea, or passes between the Aleutian Islands.

The agent later complained that under his construction of the opinion he notified the Indians agents that they could not go out in their schooners and then let down their canoes and go out to spear seals, that he knew they had rights to go out on their canoes from the shore and catch seals, but that it was impossible, as it would require a day's travel to reach the sealing ground in case of a storm.

The agent also stated that the Makhas would incur great hardship if the permission asked is not given. They have eight or nine schooners, some of which they bought this season, while others have just been repaired at heavy cost. The sealing, says the agent, is not done from these schooners, but they are merely kept in sight so that the sealers can go to them at night or in case of a storm. The agent intimated that the Makhas might get through the winter unless they saw now, owing to the use of seals for food and clothing. He questions the benefit the Indians are to derive from ownership of schooners if they cannot use them in the manner indicated.

A NOTABLE REUNION

William Martin Meets His Wife.

He Prefers Charges Against S. S. Terry.

The Latter Threatens to Sue Dr. Heydecker.

R. H. McDonald, Jr., Pleads Not Guilty—A $300,000 Failure at Portland, Or.—A San Francisco Attorney Disappears.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.
SAN DIEGO, May 24.—There was a notable reunion at the Hotel del Coronado this morning when William A. Martin, manager of the New York Times, met his wife and child, for whom he has searched for the past three years in remote parts of the earth. Mrs. Martin, while revealing by her strange absence that her mind was affected, was very happy at the reunion, and she left home and evaded her husband through her own will alone. Martin will leave with his wife and child tomorrow afternoon for their New York home, accompanied by a private detective, who will guard the party.

Martin today made a detailed statement of the facts in the case. He corroborated fully the facts previously given by Dr. Heydecker of the disappearance of his wife, nearly three years ago. He said:

"I am not, of course, familiar with the details of Dr. Heydecker's flight with the detectives at San Francisco, and on the way to Coronado, but the other points of the story I know are true. The wonderful success Terry had in keeping my wife away from her friends while he was handling her estate would not seem so remarkable if he had been so successful in a day."

"I have been acquainted with the laws of New York State, which are very peculiar, and, as happened in this instance, outrageous and unjust. Under the law, Terry was not only not compelled to tell me of his wife's whereabouts, but he was strictly forbidden to reveal her address. I have absolutely no control of my wife's property, and, therefore, with her away, Terry, with the power of attorney from her, was master of the situation."

"While Mrs. Martin is able to take care of herself, it is apparent that her mind is not in the same condition as well as in. In fact, in a telegram from New York, giving an interview with him, he says she is insane, and therefore not to be trusted in what she says about him. Does not this reveal his motive in keeping her away, while he had charge of her property? To my mind he has been playing a dangerous position by admitting that he has known her to be irresponsible. Knowing this, he should have attempted as her attorney to secure an examination and the appointment of a guardian of her person and property."

"I shall ask for her examination, and if she is found insane I wish the guardianship of her property placed in my hands. I want it distinctly understood that I do not wish to be placed in charge of that. I will demand that the money be placed in the hands of a trustee for the benefit of our children. Terry is a protégé of Everett P. Wheeler, one of the best-known lawyers in New York, and has secured the services of Dr. Heydecker, a physician of the Hotel del Coronado, received a telegram from Dr. Heydecker, threatening to sue him for defamation of character if he published interviews correctly reported. Heydecker is a physician who has employed private detectives at San Francisco to obtain control of Mrs. Martin, and the detective, Metzler, employed by Dr. Heydecker, had been bought off by Terry."

"Terry is welcome to all the satisfaction he can get from me," said Dr. Heydecker. "My proof that Terry tried to secure possession of Mrs. Martin is positive, and Terry knows it."

THE PYTHIAN GRAND LODGE.
Monte Carlo Chosen as the Next Meeting Place—The Board of Relief.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—This afternoon the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias selected Monte Carlo as the place for the next annual meeting, and $500 was voted for holding an encampment of the order in the city of Monte Carlo. Offers of a site have been received from Monte Carlo, Benicia, Armenia and other places. At the time of the meeting, the Grand Lodge decides that local lodges can reduce the sick benefit if they so desire. The Grand Lodge refused to hold biennial sessions.

By these means foreign-born Chinese have obtained birth certificates which they think will entitle them to residence under the Geary act. These false entries are dated as far back as 1887.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC.
Representatives of the Road Express Views on the R. E. Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Representatives of the Central Pacific Company appeared before the House Committee on Pacific Railroads today to express their views on the R. E. Bill. The committee heard from Mr. Riley of Pennsylvania.

President Huntington spoke on the difficulties encountered in organizing and building a road. The proposition that building a road made such an error. When the road was completed there were no government bonds left, but many debts. The company always managed to keep its credit good, and it was no object to it to Australia, which was a great source of expense. Shares had to be sold from $75 to $30 to pay debts. The Wells Fargo Company had been paid $2,500,000 for carrying mails, and the Central Pacific received but $400,000.

Chairman Riley said the last of the bill was a bill to amend the act of 1889, and inquired what the road proposed to do? President Huntington replied that the great roads almost never paid their bonds, and that the road was replaced by other issues. He was anxious to pay the debt, but as long as the government was drawing its interest there was no object to it. Repeating questions from Mr. Boatner, Huntington said he had submitted no plan of reorganization. The bill submitted to the Senate was not his own plan, but he was pleased with it because it outlined a plan by which all the creditors would get their money, and under that plan the road could still be selling another issue of mortgage bonds to replace the original, the government placed $70,000,000 in the treasury, ninety days. He said $10,000,000 would be required for a mortgage bond issue at 2 1/2 per cent. to cover the debts of the road to the government and all other parties. The government would be required to issue. He was certain the earnings of the road would be spent to defray its current obligations.

Representative Boatner reminded President Huntington that the government had paid interest for years on the bonds, saying the proposition had been that the order of the road interest and inquired whether the road intended to pay the government the $40,000,000 it had expended in that way.

Huntington replied "No," and said that, basing the matter purely on grounds of equity, the road should pay the government interest on the bonds. The government had crippled the road by subsidizing rivals, which took away much of the business. He did not question the policy of the government in this regard, but considering it as a financial transaction, it had its bearing on this contract. Huntington knew of no plan without an extension of time, assuming the committee the owners of the road would not administer it for 100 years without getting anything out of it.

THE NORTHERN INQUIRY.
NEW YORK, May 24.—In the Northern Pacific inquiry today Col. McNaught was again on the witness stand. The colonel stated he did not know just where the money for the completion of the Northern Pacific and Manitoba came from, but was quite sure that accounts would show just where Villard had borrowed the money. Regarding the commissions which were paid for the sale of the bonds, Col. McNaught said he had vouchers which would show to whom they had been paid.

Whether Mr. Villard had received any commission and if so how much he could not say. Witnesses said that whatever information he had concerning the syndicate in question came from Villard, although Villard had always told him he represented other interested parties, but who they were he did not know. Col. McNaught admitted that the Northern Pacific and Manitoba has always been operated by the Northern Pacific. The hearing was then adjourned until tomorrow.

The Straightway Handicap at St. Louis—The "Frisco" Track—Louisville White-washes Cincinnati—The Whist Congress—Pugilistic Notes.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.
CINCINNATI, May 24.—The Latonia spring meeting opened auspiciously before a crowd of 8000 spectators, under a fair sky. The track was deep with mud and full of puddles. Fast time was poor one, but nevertheless proved very satisfactory to the talent, as four strong favorites, one second and one third choice, proved equal to the mud and won.

The Derby, worth $7500, of which $6555 went to the winner, was taken by Lazzarone in easy style. There were originally six horses entered, but Sirgurd and Noah were scratched, leaving only four horses to face the flag. After some fiddling about at the post, Starter Pettigill dropped the flag to a straggling start, Lazzarone leading by a length, Pearl Song second, two lengths before Tuplo, half a length before Selika. Before the first quarter was passed all four were abreast, but Lazzarone showed no signs of exhaustion and swept into the stretch two lengths in front of Pearl Song. The other horses were manifestly out of the race, and staggering through the mud, Lazzarone won in 1:13 1/4. One mile, handicap: Blizard won, six lengths, second, Royal Flush third, time 1:41 1/4.

Six furlongs: Gallant won, Seapray second, Rearguard third, time 1:13 1/4.

BLOW HOLES.
Representative Dunphy on the Defective Armor Plate.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—The congressional investigation into frauds and irregularities of armor-plates began today with open doors. Representative Dunphy detailed the early discovery of the irregularities and the investigation made by the Navy Department. He said that the defective armor-plates had been found in the Indian Head Proving Grounds and had been found defective. It had then been re-treated so as to prevent the discovery of the defect. "Was this treatment in secret?" asked Chairman Cummings.

Mr. Dunphy answered in the affirmative. "He said that one plate was picked out as a sample of a large number of plates, amounting to 349 tons. When this sample was found to be defective, it served to pass the sample plate and that in turn passed the entire 349 tons of armor."

Mr. Dunphy spoke of blow-holes in the armor of the monitor Monterey. Experts had gone to the navy yard and actually located the blow-holes which had been found to deceive the government. Similar blow-holes existed in the armor of many other ships, but it was impossible for the experts to locate the defects as the ships were at their moorings. The first charges covered 700 defective plates.

In conclusion Mr. Dunphy said: "My information is that the defective plates were found in the Oregon, the Machias, the Castine, the Monadnock, the Cincinnati, the Terror, the New York and the Monterey and that the defective plates had been found in the office of the Secretary of the Navy."

"My objection in offering the original resolution of inquiry, were, first, that the government had sent, perhaps millions of dollars by the discovery of those great frauds, and secondly, that the armor-plates and battleships had been placed on the sea in a defective condition, and that the government was providing for the proper effectiveness and safety of the vessels."

He added that the defective plates located by the government experts had been estimated to be worth $700,000 to $1,000,000, and on these the committee has asked Capt. Sampson of the Naval Bureau of Ordnance to appear tomorrow.

AN UNIQUE OCCASION

American Naval Officers Banqueted.

Admiral Erbin and Capt. Mahan Royally Received.

Toasts to the President and the United States.

Englishmen Proud of American Progress—"Blood Thicker Than Water"—Mr. Bayard Speaks a Good Word for Both Navies.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.
LONDON, May 24.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The banquet tendered to Admiral Erbin, Capt. Mahan, and the other officers of the U.S.S. Chicago by officers of the English navy and army and distinguished citizens of Great Britain, was held tonight in St. James's Hall.

The principal table was placed on a platform underneath the organ-loft, from which hung immense English and American flags. Intertwined Union Jacks and Stars and Stripes were placed in many parts of the hall, and, inscribed "Blood is thicker than water," was suspended, opposite the organ-loft.

Chaplain Sherman pronounced grace. Lord George Hamilton offered a toast to the Queen and President Cleveland, paying a glowing tribute to both, but especially to the latter. He gave the toast with the hope that the rare qualities of these two persons might long continue to influence the national policy of the two great countries of which they were the heads. (Cheers.)

After giving the usual toasts to the Prince of Wales and his family and to the royal household, Lord Hamilton toasted the United States, saying: "Englishmen are proud of the progress that the United States has made in the last few years, and believe that the progress was largely due to the radical qualities which those who originally came from Great Britain transmitted to America. It was a marked change for the better in the relations between the United States and England. One hundred and ten years ago we parted in anger after bloodshed. Now we have met together as reconciled members of one family."

THE PUBLIC SERVICE

Special Meeting of Police Commissioners.

Secret Conference in the Mayor's Private Office.

All Information Withheld from the Public.

Much Speculation, but No Facts Known—The Merck Case—At the Court-house—Mrs. Katz's Divorce Suit.

The secret session of the Police Commission was one of the most talked-of happenings about the City Hall yesterday. The Board of Public Works made the usual weekly tour of inspection, and several of the Councilmen were about the building looking up matters that are soon to come before the Council or before some of the committees.

At the Courthouse the Vignes trial and Katz divorce case were the only features out of the ordinary routine.

AT THE CITY HALL.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

A Secret Meeting of the Board—Nothing Given Out.

The Police Commission was in session for two hours yesterday afternoon but, like the doings of Congress up to date, a few blank pages are all that is required to tell what was done.

All of the members of the commission were present soon after 3 o'clock and they proceeded to the Mayor's private office. No formal call had been issued for the meeting which was held without the clerk being called in at all.

Capt. Roberts and Sergs. Morton, Jeffries and Smith were, one at a time called before the inquisitorial body. Chief Glass sat with the commission while it was going on.

After the hearing was over the meeting was continued for nearly half an hour, but all that could be heard was a subdued conversation and an occasional audible smile on the part of the Mayor.

The meeting had but just begun when a representative of the press knocked for admission. The door was opened, but admission was politely refused.

A little after 5 o'clock the conference was concluded and the first man to emerge was Commissioner Bosbyshell, who came out at a rate of speed which indicated he had been projected by slow burning powder. It was only by a tremendous exertion that a reporter ran and caught him just before he reached the foot of the stairs leading to the first floor.

Asked what had been done Mr. Bosbyshell said, "nothing," and was then as mum as a bottle of "extra dry." Commissioners Weldon, Bradish and Arnold were not so difficult to reach, but they positively would not be interviewed. When asked any questions about what mysterious thing or things had been done each one of them referred the reporters to some other place; the way they do in a red-tape office.

Mayor Rowan did not have to be caught by the arm in order to be stopped long enough to state that he really nothing to tell. He smiled some when asked what the proceedings had all been about and then said the other members of the board could tell about it. Being that some of them would say a word his Honor went on to state they had found it needful to talk over and investigate a number of matters pertaining to the department. He was so sorry he could not tell about it, but that could not be done. He began to talk of something else and so the interview ended.

It is generally believed that saloon business and the Merck case occupied the time of the Commissioners. The relatives of the young girl are thoroughly aroused over the affair, and will probably take the matter into the courts this morning.

City Assessment Statements.

The City Assessor urges that all property-owners who have not already done so will file in his office statements of their property, either today or tomorrow. It will probably be greatly to their advantage to do so, for it will be necessary next Monday to begin checking from the maps. By this work is meant to go through the various maps and assess each lot or separate piece of land which is not marked as having been described in some statement already filed. Each piece of land thus found will be assessed separately and after this work is completed the list of assessments will be arranged in alphabetical order.

City Hall Notes.

The Committee on Charter Revision will meet this evening.

The Board of Public Works will meet this morning at 10 o'clock. A number of petitions for various street improvements will be considered, and property-owners interested will have a chance to be heard in reference to them.

M. E. C. Munday has filed a protest against the construction of a sewer, as proposed, on Hope street. He objected to having the sewer extend further north than 180 feet north from the southerly line of Twenty-third street. As he has already paid for a sewer on Twenty-third street, he objects to having his property fronted with street sewer is connected, he objects to paying for a sewer on the Hope-street side of his property, the ground it would be of no benefit to him.

Edith Ruthard is Single Again—Her Marriage With Katz Annulled.

Mrs. Edward Katz is once more Miss Edith Ruthard, for Judge McKinley yesterday granted her a decree annulling the hasty marriage consummated only a few days ago.

It was only a little while, but the girl has undoubtedly had a large quantity of experience forced into the brief space of time, and is somewhat wiser than she was last month.

The marriage of Miss Ruthard and Katz will probably be handed down as one of the most hasty matrimonial ventures on record. The couple met at noon, and by 10 o'clock on the following evening they were married. The next morning Mrs. Katz left her husband, and took with her a fancy dress as she was, thanks to the accommodating qualities of California laws. The grounds upon which the annulment was asked were that fraud and artifice had been employed by Katz to bring about the marriage, or, in other words, that the girl had been drugged. Katz was not present yesterday.

Katz was not present yesterday in court when the case was heard, so the wife could tell her story without danger of contradiction. She said that she had no intention of marrying Katz when she first met him. He had represented himself to her as being the representative of a large Eastern house, which was desirous of employing a young lady manager. He thought that Miss Ruthard would be just the right sort of a person, and he wanted to engage her at once. The girl had told him that she would have to go out and see her father and mother first, and together the two started in a hack. After they had gone a short distance, Mrs. Katz testified, she began to feel faint, and Katz offered her some liquor. She drank it, and after that remembered nothing more until she found that she had been married.

The hackman who had driven the couple out to the minister's said that the girl did look like a crazy person when she got out of the hack, and that after learning of the circumstances he had come to the conclusion that everything had not been right.

Upon this and other corroboratory testimony the marriage was declared annulled.

HEART DISEASE.

Sudden Death of Capt. Moody at the Los Angeles Theater.

Capt. Isaac P. Moody, for the past seven years doorman at the Los Angeles Theater and Grand Opera-house for Manager Wyatt, dropped dead at his post of duty about 10 o'clock last night, presumably from heart disease.

A few minutes prior to his sudden death, Capt. Moody had been called upon by one of the ushers to select a couple of young men, who were creating a disturbance in the dress circle of the theater during the performance.

He at once reached the noisy couple, who were slightly intoxicated, to leave the theater, and as one of them evinced a disposition to argue the question, Moody grabbed him by the collar of his coat and assisted him from his seat, to which the youth held on for a few moments. Finally both disturbers, in order to avoid arrest, went out followed by Moody, who did not appear to be disturbed at all by the exertion he had just undergone. Hardly had he returned to his post at the door, however, before he fell prone to the ground. Some of the ushers and others who were standing in the vicinity rushed to his aid, but it was too late.

That he was gasping for breath and evidently in a serious condition. Dr. E. C. Manning, who was in a box, was hastily summoned, but for no less than Moody's side he at once pronounced the stricken doorman as beyond human aid, and ere the words were spoken, Moody was dead.

Corner Cates was notified of the occurrence, and under his directions, the body was removed to Sharp & Samson's undertaking establishment, where an inquest will be held this morning.

The deceased, who was very popular with all his associates, leaves a widow and small child, and a son, now in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company at Sacramento.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

Many Residences in Course of Construction—The New Railway.

F. S. Hutchins, a wealthy citizen of Pasadena, has commenced the erection of a $5000 residence on Boyle avenue, opposite the W. H. Workman place.

Quite a number of recent purchasers of property in the Park tract are preparing to build; in fact, in conversation with Mr. Workman yesterday the latter stated that plans for no less than fifteen different homes were now in the hands of architects. He further stated that negotiations were under way with a view to completing the new car line and extending it through the city. The plan is to make it an electric road, and the intention is to push it through at once, as the assurance being given that it will be in active operation before the close of the year.

Mrs. Mamie Foss and O. F. Summerfield of New York city, and Fred C. Wilson of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., are at the Mt. Pleasant.

Prof. White of La Crescenta, formerly of Wabash, Ind., where he held a high position as an educator, delivered a very interesting lecture to the pupils at Occidental College yesterday afternoon, taking for his subject the German poet Heine.

The entertainment at the Methodist Episcopal Church tonight, given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, gives promise of unusual interest. Coral Harrison will contribute largely toward filling up the programme, and will be assisted by a number of her professional friends from over in the city.

Arrivals at the County Jail.

The only arrival at the County Jail yesterday from the outside districts was Harry Snavely, a runaway boy, who was brought in from Santa Monica by Constable Myers.

A POINT RAISED.

False Swearing is Not Always Perjury.

Interesting Developments in the Vignes Case.

Ewing's Testimony Contradicted and Broken Down.

An Expert's Opinion as to the Authorship of the Letters and Notes—Vignes Gives Evidence in His Own Behalf.

Developments in the Vignes perjury case yesterday were interesting, and generally in favor of the defense. At the very outset, the people had rested, a proposition was brought up which affected materially the aspect of the case, and which promises to play a very important part in the ultimate decision. The point was urged by the counsel for the defense that there were times when a person might commit perjury by swearing to a lie, and then when he might not. The court and the District Attorney readily agreed with the defendant's counsel, that the code was plain to the effect that false statements made under oath, to constitute perjury, should be intentional. The issue, on the other hand, was that Vignes had sworn to a lie, before the grand jury, that unless his acts regarding which he was testifying amounted to misconduct in office no offense could be charged for falsifying.

However paradoxical the reasoning might seem to those who have no doubt as to the law, and the court decided to allow the jury to draw the nice distinctions, under full instructions, at the conclusion of the trial. The case opened yesterday morning in Department One, with J. W. Kemp on the stand. Kemp stated that he was an attorney-at-law, and had been acting as counsel for Louis E. Vignes. He then went on to say: "I learned on the afternoon of April 24 that Ewing had pleaded guilty to the offense with which he was charged. I saw Vignes a short while afterward, and asked him why he had railroaded the boy through the court. Vignes told me that he had no money, and that he had some money, which Ewing wanted to take with him to San Quentin. I said nothing further to Vignes at the time, but went to Judge Smith and found out the circumstances. The next day, while I was in the jail, Vignes came up in front of me and said: 'You have a pretty mug, having to be a lawyer, and said that if he was going over the road that he would kill me before he went.'"

At this juncture Mr. Appel asked that the latter part of the witness' testimony be stricken out as entirely incompetent. "It may be stricken out, and the jury is instructed to disregard the evidence," ordered Judge Smith, much to the satisfaction of counsel for the defense. Kemp made several more statements regarding the affidavits presented in the case, but his testimony on the whole was rather weak. Deputy Sheriff W. H. Bell, next sworn. He said that he had been shown an order signed by Ewing, which Vignes had, it was after Vignes had been down to the court the first time. "Vignes handed me the order and said that he was going after the boy's money," the witness said. "I handed the order to him, and he put it in the envelope and sealed it up. There was no secrecy about the matter."

C. W. Bell, deputy county clerk, produced the register in which the appointment of deputy sheriffs are recorded, and read the entry showing the appointment of Ewing. Louis Ewing was then called for further cross-examination. He was shown several letters and asked if he had given a somewhat decided denial. Ewing was not quite so meek as he was on the day previous, and at times seemed to forget to play the part of injured and humiliated innocence, as he did when he was sentenced. After denying positively having written the letters upon which the question as to whether or not the act was an official one, the court and the District Attorney assented to this proposition, and Mr. Appel argued the point with considerable ability the momentous point of balance, which was somewhat of a novel one. He said that the cause of the action might have been wrong, but the element of crime was lacking. It was not misconduct to influence to secure a lighter sentence for a prisoner. It was done every day by the District Attorney, when he recommended defendants to the mercy of the court or consented to having them at times plead to lesser offenses than those which were originally charged. Several authorities were cited with reference to the point, the conclusion being summed up in effect that if the act charged were not willful misconduct in office, then no perjury had been committed.

Dist. Atty. Dillon, in reply, said that it was most certainly, to his mind, misconduct to agree to get any prisoner off with a slight sentence for money, and such an accusation was the one before the grand jury at the time Vignes gave the disputed testimony. At the conclusion of the argument the court reviewed briefly the points presented, and said: "I am going to let the jury determine the matter, so the motion is denied. The instructions can be made to cover more fully the question."

AFTERNOON SESSION. The defense called H. T. Hazard, Esq., at the opening of the case in the afternoon. Mr. Hazard said he had lived in Los Angeles for thirty years. He had known H. Vignes and knew his reputation for honesty and integrity to be good. Judge McKinley, H. J. Shoulters, Eugene Maxwell, C. Edgar Smith, Theodore Summerland, J. G. Estudillo and Frank Lowry all testified to the good reputation of the defendant.

Jack Henry, deputy sheriff, was then sworn. He remembered the occasion on which the accusation was brought against Vignes for misconduct in office. "When Ewing was brought in," he said, "I had a talk with him, or at least he told me he intended to plead guilty, as his lawyers were trying to get all his money, and that that was all they wanted. Ewing also afterward stated that he had given Vignes an order for some money which was down in Luitweller's."

E. A. Meserve, Esq., testified that he had known the defendant a number of years. His reputation had always been considered good. Deputy Sheriff A. W. Marsh swore that Ewing sent word to him that he desired to make a statement that what he had said before the grand jury was false in reference to Mr. Vignes.

D. M. McGarry was another character witness, and his testimony was, short, and to the effect that he had always known the defendant to bear a good reputation. Deputy County Clerk A. W. Seaver was called as an expert on handwriting. He compared the writing in the order sent by Ewing through Vignes and the other letters, the authorship of which the boy denied, and declared the latter to be the same in all.

The letters were then read to the jury and filed in evidence by the defense. One of them contained threats against another person, warning him not to testify in favor of Vignes. Another was the form of an inquiry, addressed to Judge Smith, asking him (Judge Smith) was not sent to the penitentiary to serve his sentence. Charles F. Fox, a notary public, had accompanied counsel for the defense to the County Jail when the statement was obtained from Ewing. Ewing was told that it was understood that he (Ewing) wanted to make a statement, and that he could go ahead if he did so, voluntarily. There was no promise made to Ewing at the time by counsel, nor anything which could be construed as a promise. Upon being shown the transcript of the statement before used, witness identified the matter as being a true and correct copy of his shorthand notes. After I had taken the document, he said, "I took it over to the jail and read it over to him. He signed it, and I then administered the oath."

Mr. Fox's experience as a court reporter served him well on the witness stand, for his testimony was direct and conclusive. He showed that due caution had been observed in securing the statement, and that no undue advantage had been taken of the convict.

Dist. Atty. Dillon was sworn at the request of Mr. Appel, and asked regarding the length of a certain interview which he had had with Ewing. Dillon said that he had written a letter to Gov. Markham recommending the pardon of Ewing. E. M. Shipman, who had acted as turnkey at the County Jail during the greater part of the month of April, said that he had never seen Vignes talking to Ewing after the indictment was filed. Arthur Wilbanks, one of the jail trustees, also testified. He said that he knew Ewing. Ewing had thrown a letter or note down from the upper "tanks" in the jail to the witness. Wilbanks identified all of the letters shown, and filed as having been written by Ewing, in a very positive manner. Kemp, and, perhaps, Potter, had called upon Ewing previous to the latter's going before the grand jury. Ewing had told the witness that he had asked Vignes what constituted burglary, and also asked the deputy sheriff to take him over to the court in order that he might plead guilty. "Ewing said," continued the witness, "that the scheme to get a pardon was to be worked to break up a political ring of which Vignes was a member, and that the matter would be carried into the coming campaign. Then one evening, just about closing time, Ewing called to me, and when I went to him asked me if I could send for Vignes. He said that he wanted to make a confession, as he had not acted right about the affair and was anxious to clear Vignes. Ewing mentioned to me that he had sent over to Luitweller's by Vignes for some money, and he called to me whenever he had anything to say."

Wilbanks was a good witness for the defense, and his testimony very decided throughout the examination. Jailor P. J. Kennedy told how Ewing had come to him and said that he wanted to make a statement in order to clear Vignes. "I told him that I didn't want to hear the statement at that time," said the witness, "and later several notes were handed to me for delivery. I never saw Ewing coming with the prisoner after the matter came before the grand jury."

The defendant then took the stand and in response to questions of his counsel, said: "I first got acquainted with Ewing sometime during the month of April. The first time I saw him I was in the jail, and he brought in by Mr. Cline on suspicion. I then had charge of the back part of the jail. The first conversation I had with him was on the day after he was brought in. He asked me what constituted burglary, and I told him. He said in reply that he had no chance to beat his case and he afterwards called me and said that he wanted to plead guilty and asked me to take him up. I told him that the information was not ready yet, but he continued to insist that I should go up to the District Attorney's office and get them to prepare the information. I did go up with Mr. Cline to the District Attorney's office and told Mr. Conkling about it. Conkling said that he would get the information ready by afternoon. I did take Ewing down to the jail, and as soon as he got inside the door Cleveland said, as he saw Ewing, 'there is the man I want to see.' Ewing went over to him and I sat down at one side. Cleveland and Ewing stood talking together for several minutes in a low tone of voice. I did not hear a word that they said. Finally Ewing turned and I thought that he was ready to go and started up. Cleveland then said: 'He's going to plead guilty, is he?' Then Cleveland said: 'Ewing would get a light sentence and I said that it was always presumed that when a prisoner pleaded guilty that he might not get so heavy a sentence as he would if he was tried and convicted. After Ewing had received his sentence he asked me to go down to Luitweller's and get some money for him. I agreed to do so and did take an order to Cleveland for the money. When I presented the order to Mr. Cleveland he said that the money had not come yet and that I might call in the next day. I told him that I would do so if I happened to be down that way and then I went out. I have never talked with Ewing since I was indicted by the grand jury."

C. C. Stephens, Esq., was put on the stand for a moment. He said that on a previous trial Ewing had testified that he had not offered or paid any one $20 to assist in getting him a lighter sentence and that no one had offered to intercede for him for a consideration. Vignes was then recalled for cross-examination and he remained on the stand until the closing of court. Argument will be made today, and it is expected that the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

BURKE'S ESCAPE.

Breathing the Air of Freedom When He Should Be in Jail.

A peculiar escape from the chain-gang has been brought to light. It seems that some time in February E. W. Lewis, the real estate man, was having a house constructed at No. 601 Bernard street, and had some prepared mortar on the premises slacking for two or three days. During that time a young man named Oscar Burke, Jr., stole a part of the mortar and took it to another house.

After learning that young Burke had taken the mortar Mr. Lewis was a good deal surprised to find that less than one month before Burke had been sentenced to ninety days in the chain-gang.

The records of the secretary of police show the young man escaped on February 14, and also show quite a number of others who have escaped from the chain-gang at one time and another.

In justice to the police Department it should be stated that the working prisoners, when employed on the chain-gang, are, in the morning, turned over to the deputies under the Street Superintendent, and are practically out of the custody of the police till they are returned to the City Jail after the close of the day's work.

An escape is usually not reported to the police till the time of returning the men to the jail, and by that time there is, of course, no good chance of the police not finding the man who has gotten away.

Patched Up Their Differences. In the Police Court yesterday afternoon Meyer Breidenbach was arraigned by Justice Austin upon the charge of vagrancy preferred against him by his wife, and entered his plea of guilty thereto, but a compromise was subsequently effected between the complainant and defendant, and upon motion of the District Attorney the case was dismissed, and the defendant discharged.

Mrs. Breidenbach claims that her spouse is a worthless fellow, whom she has supported until patience has ceased to be a virtue.

Held for Burglary. Joseph Green, a water-cress vendor, about 16 years of age, appeared before Justice Austin yesterday afternoon for examination upon the charge of having committed burglary at the residence of Mrs. Schlader, No. 710 Rosas street, on May 11 last, and stolen therefrom a lady's gold watch and chain, and was held to answer under bonds in the sum of $1000.

No Use for Lard.

That's the happy and healthy condition of thousands of housekeepers who have been bright enough to try

Cottolene

THE NEW SHORTENING, which is a pure, perfect and popular substitute for lard for all cooking purposes. The success of COTTOLENE has called out worthless imitations with similar color and similar names. Look out for these. "All that glitters is not gold," and all that's yellow is not COTTOLENE.

There is but one valuable new shortening, and that is COTTOLENE. It is healthful, delicate and economical as a single trial will prove. At leading Grocers. Watch the name. REFUSE ALL SUBSTITUTES. N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., Sole Manufacturers, ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO, NEW YORK, BOSTON.
